Barbados Tourism and Visitation

Barbados is an independent English-speaking Commonwealth country and the easternmost island of the Caribbean. It is one of the most mature tourist destinations in the Caribbean. The island is known for offering some of the most serene beaches in the world, as well as an abundance of dining options, local shopping experiences, outstanding golf courses, and numerous other attractions. According to Barbados Tourism Marketing Inc. (BTMI), approximately 80% of visitors to the island come for vacation or tourism purposes. The following graph shows the historical stopover visitation data for Barbados.

Following declines in 2020 and 2021 due to the impact of COVID-19, stopover visitation for calendar-year 2023 reached 90.0% of the peak visitation in 2019. Year-to-date performance data through March 2024 illustrate further strengthening, reaching approximately 9.6% higher than the same period in 2019.

Barbados seasonality follows the typical Caribbean pattern, with most stopover visitors coming between November and April. The United States and United Kingdom make up the majority of these visitors in Barbados. The following graph shows the breakdown of 2023 stopover visitors to Barbados by key markets.

Summary

Following the interruption of Barbados's tourism industry during the COVID-19 pandemic, Barbados is on pace to surpass the peak achieved in 2019 during 2024. The recent and planned opening of a number of internationally branded resorts in Barbados will make the destination even more attractive.

Aside from stopover visitation, the Port of Bridgetown is capable of handling some of the world’s largest passenger cruise and cargo ships. Cruise-ship passenger levels for the country ended 2023 at 95% of the 2019 peak level and are expected to exceed 2019 levels in 2024. Historical cruise-ship passenger levels are illustrated below.

Hotel Demand and New Developments

The island of Barbados offers approximately 6,000 hotel rooms, with a mix of both traditional European-plan hotels and all-inclusive resorts. The majority operate without an international brand affiliation and are positioned in the luxury tier. The following graph shows the historical occupancy levels for Barbados as compared to the Caribbean as a whole.

While occupancy has not fully recovered to pre-pandemic levels, Barbados occupancy ended 2023 at 93% of peak occupancy. This metric is still trending upward and is expected to reach the prior peak level by year-end 2024.

While the majority of existing inventory is independent and unbranded, a shift has occurred in recent months that will continue throughout the next few years. The 422-room Wyndham Grand Barbados Sam Lord's Castle All Inclusive Resort opened in late 2023 as Wyndham's first resort in Barbados. The 132-room Hotel Indigo Barbados is currently under construction and is expected to open in late 2024. In addition, numerous other branded hotel projects are in the pipeline, such as the 120-room Pendry Barbados and Pendry Residences, as well as the 380-room all-inclusive Hyatt Ziva Barbados.

Conclusion

Despite the slow rebound after the COVID-19 pandemic, Barbados is on pace to surpass the prior tourism peak of 2019 during 2024. With the opening of the Wyndham Grand Barbados Sam Lord's Castle All Inclusive Resort and the increase of internationally branded hotel inventory over the next few years, the Barbados hotel market is well positioned to resonate with American consumers, resulting in more U.S. tourism to the island.
